FEBS, the Federation of European Biochemical Societies

Founded on 1st January 1964, the Federation of European Biochemical Societies (FEBS) has become one of Europe's largest organizations in the molecular life sciences. It has over 30,000 members across 39 biochemistry and molecular biology societies (its 'Constituent Societies') in different countries of Europe and neighboring regions. As a grass-roots organization FEBS thereby provides a voice to a large part of the academic research and teaching community in Europe and beyond.

As a charity, FEBS promotes and supports biochemistry, molecular biology, cell biology, molecular biophysics and related research areas through its journals, Congress, Advanced Courses, Fellowships, and other initiatives. There is an emphasis in many programmes on scientific exchange and cooperation between scientists working in different countries, and on promotion of the training of early-career scientists.

FEBS Congress

The FEBS Congress aims to provide an outstanding international forum in the area of Europe and neighboring regions for the face-to-face exchange of knowledge and ideas across the molecular life sciences. FEBS Congresses feature inspiring plenary lectures from distinguished researchers, a range of themed symposia providing updates from leading experts in different research areas, special sessions to engage participants on wider issues beyond research, and the contributions of participants towards the scientific discussion at the event through posters and brief oral presentations.

The FEBS Congress has a strong emphasis on support, education and inspiration for the next generation of scientists, such as a bursary scheme for early-career researchers and a satellite Young Scientists' Forum. Altogether FEBS Congresses aim to be an exemplary cross-discipline gathering in the molecular life sciences for research presentation, discussion, learning, inspiration and encouragement - with participants leaving with new research knowledge and ideas, and perhaps the beginnings of international collaborations and friendships. FEBS Congresses are a collaboration between FEBS and its Constituent Societies (the biochemistry and molecular biology societies across Europe and neighboring regions that belong to FEBS), with the organization of the event awarded to a different host Society each year. In 2024 the congress will be held in Milan, Italy, hosted by the Italian Society of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology (SIB).

SPONSORSHIP LEVELS

Industry is invited to sponsor The FEBS Congress 2024 by choosing various options which are set out in the following pages of the prospectus.
You are welcome to build your own package.

Those companies who only wish to sponsor individual items on the list below or only wish to exhibit are welcome to do so.

Please note that if any elements of the sponsor packages do not suit your current objectives, we will be delighted to discuss how we can assist you in building a package to suit your needs.

Our bespoke approach to each sponsor will ensure that your investment leads to a successful experience.

Supporters of the FEBS Congress 2024 will be able to make the most out of their presence at the congress by generating unique leads to expand their business and create awareness of their brand.

Build your own package

You can select as many sponsorship items as you wish, from any category. Then, depending on the cumulative total of your sponsorship items, you will reach a certain sponsorship level, leading to extra benefits which are outlined in the table overleaf.

For example if your total adds up to EUR 40,000 you will reach PLATINUM Sponsor level and therefore are eligible to take advantage of those associated benefits, in addition to the benefits already linked to each sponsorship item you have selected.

In addition to the sponsorship support, your company will receive significant exposure and recognition through the benefits mentioned below:
